

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus to provide conditional legacy support are disclosed. In particular, the methods and apparatus initialize a processor in a pre-boot environment using a first computer readable medium. The processor determines if the legacy support is required and selectively locates and loads a compatibility support module into the processor from a second computer readable medium if the processor requires legacy support.